LEGISLATION

Legislation which became effective April 7, Chapter 120 of the Acts of 1933, made an important change in the laws relating to the Board and this Chapter, together with Chapter 284, Acts of 1933, which became effective September 24, made important changes in the laws concerning the licenses granted by it. Said Chapter 120 provided in brief for an Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission and for the manufacture, importation, transportation and sale of wines and malt beverages containing not less than one-half and not more than three and two-tenths per cent of alcohol by weight under a system of licenses or permits, the A. B. C. Commission to have the control and licensing of manufacturing, wholesaling and importing, and local licensing authorities to have the control and licensing of sales to be drunk on the premises and sales at retail not to be drunk on the premises with licenses issued by the local authorities subject to approval by the A. B. C. Commission and with the right of appeal to the Commission by anyone aggrieved by the action of the local authorities. The Act also gave local authorities the right to fix license fees within certain maximums and minimums and, except for certain prohibitions, to regulate the hours of sale.

The situation was such that the sale of the beverages permitted by said Chapter 120 was permissible in Boston on the day the Act was signed. The Federal legislation making this Act possible was so near in point of time to the enactment of Chapter 120 and there was so much doubt until the last moment as to the provisions and scope of Chapter 120, that the Board was unable to make adequate preparations for the issuing of licenses. The first vote of the Board was to provide that all licensees must be registered voters of Boston.

The demand was so great, and the drouth apparently so severe, that a limited number of licenses distributed throughout the city was forthwith granted with but little investigation.

As permitted by the Act, the Board established April 30 as the end of the alcoholic beverage license year.

As also permitted by the Act, all licenses granted without substantial investigation were granted temporarily to July 1. All applications were sent to the police for investigation and report, and a member of the Board or its secretary inspected the premises of and interviewed practically all applicants.

The number of licenses for beverages not to be drunk on the premises was limited by the Act on a population basis to 176 in Boston. This number appeared to be too few and by amendment the number was increased to 501, of which about 300 were granted before the end of the year. In granting these licenses preference was given to former liquor dealers of good repute. The Board fixed the annual license fee for these licenses at $300, and the hours of sale from 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. at first, and shortly afterward extended the closing hour to 11 P.M.

These licenses were issued to wholesalers, stores for the sale of beverages only, and to markets and grocery stores. The holders of these licenses gave the Board practically no trouble during the year.

The Act further provided that an unlimited number of licenses might be granted to innholders, common victualers and clubs for the permitted beverages to be drunk on the premises. The Board fixed the annual fee for all these licenses at $300, and regulated the hours of sale by providing that a common victualer might not sell outside the hours covered by his common victualer license, and that no sales might be made by any licensee between the hours of 1 and 5 A.M. on week days or between 12 o'clock Saturday night and 1 P.M. on Sunday. The Board also exercised its right of curtailing the hours of sale in some places.

The issuing of these licenses to innholders and reputable established clubs caused little trouble but common victualers and newly organized clubs presented more of a problem. Some inactive clubs with old charters also assumed unwonted activity.

Many common victualers could not, in the opinion of the Board, qualify as restaurants under the law, and as such become entitled to malt and wine beverage licenses. The situation came about in this way. Some years ago when food began to be served in many places that were not real restaurants, the Board felt that it was better for the community to require that all sellers of any kind of food to be eaten on the premises take out common victualer licenses, with the consequent right of supervision by the Board and other authorities, although they could not qualify under the law as common victualers.

The Board decided at an early date that no licenses under the Act would be granted to drug stores and few of these stores applied, but nearly all other holders of common victualer licenses applied for malt and wine licenses and many of these did not have the equipment to qualify under Section 3 of said Chapter 120, defining restaurants, and did not serve regular meals. Consequently, with the exception of large and well known restaurants, all applicants were required to appear before the Board, were instructed, and their places of business inspected by some member of the Board or by its secretary. The minimum kitchen requirements established are a 4-burner gas stove with oven, a sink, hot water, a refrigerator, and some general food.

Some licensees have insisted with apparent truth that sandwiches were all the food desired by their patrons. In such cases, the Board has encouraged and advised, and sometimes ordered, that more kinds of food be prepared and advertised, and this has met with considerable but not entire success. Some discipline has been necessary, but on the whole common victualer malt and wine licensees have given the Board very little trouble since their licenses were issued. Only one such license has been revoked. These licenses have been issued freely, have been popular, and with very few undesirable results.

The Act provides that the permitted beverages may not be drunk by patrons while standing. It seemed to the Board that it would help a licensee to enforce this provision if all bars or counters at which food or these beverages were served were equipped with fixed stools. It therefore required that this be done, and both licensees and patrons seem pleased with the result. These beverages are not allowed to be sold from or at a soda fountain.

With the coming of malt and wine beverages, several clubs were organized for alleged social or other lawful purposes, and various older clubs of similar purport took on new leases of life, and applied for malt and wine licenses, and in some cases it was very difficult to determine whether the licenses ought to be granted. Most of these clubs were composed of and were for men only.

Some applications were rejected and the places became alleged speakeasies, but if the officers of the club were apparently respectable, and the club quarters reasonably adequate with no evidence of intended exclusion of the authorities, a license was granted. In connection with the granting of the license, the principal officers were required to appear before the Board with their records and books of account, and to give information as to what the club actually did or proposed to do.

The Board was and still is skeptical as to the principal purpose of some of these clubs, but complaints have been few and only one club license has been revoked.

Another class of clubs merits attention. During the past year or two several so-called night clubs have been organized for the principal apparent purpose of furnishing food and entertainment, principally dancing, for their members and guests. Some of these clubs have borne a good general reputation, others have not. None of these clubs held any kind of license from the Board until after September 24, 1933. On that date Chapter 284 of the Acts of 1933 became effective, which chapter in substance provides that a club which dispenses food or beverages to its members must take out a club victualer license. Shortly after September 24, some of these clubs applied for and received club victualer licenses, a condition of which is that the club premises shall be subject to inspection by the authorities at any time.

At various times during the year the Board gathered from newspaper reports, and from statements made to its members, that conditions in some of these clubs were not what they should be, but neither before nor after said September 24 were any complaints made to it or any statements implying illegal or improper conduct made to any member of the Board by persons willing to testify.

In the latter part of the year the prospect of the repeal of the 18th amendment and the expected passage by the Legislature of an Act making possible the sale of all alcoholic beverages engaged the active attention of the Board.

Applications for any probable kind of alcoholic beverage license were prepared and from and after November 22 given to applicants, and as applications were made out and filed with the Board, they were sent to the police for investigation and report. In anticipation that most of the holders of malt and wine licenses would apply for all alcoholic beverage licenses, the members of the Board or their secretary, beginning in October, inspected the premises of practically all holders of malt and wine licenses.

The granting of malt and wine licenses, and consequent supervision of the licensees, and the preparations for the granting of all alcoholic licenses, rather overshadow what has been the regular work of the Board since prohibition, but that work was carried on as usual and is shown in the detailed statement.

In connection with the regular work, one ruling of the Board may be of more than passing importance. The law provides that revolvers and certain other firearms may be sold only to a person who has a permit to buy, and who appears in person and takes delivery of the weapon. A revolver was sold by a Boston dealer to a person in New York State, and delivered there. This weapon later appeared in a hold-up in the State of Washington and was traced to the Boston dealer. He claimed that the law requiring personal appearance and delivery did not apply to shipments outside the state, but the Board ruled that appearance of the buyer and personal delivery to him applied to all sales of restricted weapons.

The Board continues to hear all who wish to be heard and takes no summary action without an opportunity for a hearing.

It has harmonious and satisfactory relations with the Police Department, City Departments, and with the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission. Very few appeals have been taken from the Board to the Commission and the Board has not thus far been overruled.

LEGISLATION

Legislation, Federal and State, enacted in this fiscal year, was the most important to licensing authorities of any ever enacted in any one year.

In anticipation of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment the Massachusetts Legislature met in special session on November 8, 1933, and by appropriate legislation provided for licensing the manufacture, importing and distribution of alcoholic beverages, and classified and defined the premises on which alcoholic beverages might be sold for consumption thereon, namely, hotels, restaurants, clubs, and taverns.

The Legislature also provided for local option as to the retail sale of such beverages and provided further that pending the action of the voters, the Mayor of a city, or the Selectmen of a town, might authorize the retail sale of alcoholic beverages except in taverns. The sale in Boston was so authorized by His Honor, Mayor James M. Curley, on December 5, 1933.

It was further provided that the manufacture, importing, wholesaling and transportation should be licensed and controlled by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission and that the retailing, by package and drug stores, hotels, restaurants, taverns, and clubs, should be licensed and controlled by the local licensing authorities, the Commission to have general supervision of the conduct of the liquor business, and that all licenses granted should be subject to its approval, Chapters 373, 374, and 376 of the Acts of 1933. These laws took effect on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment took effect December 5, 1933.

Said Chapter 376 became by substitution Chapter 138 of the General Laws and as amended by various acts of 1934 is the law governing the retail sale of alcoholic beverages.

WORK OF THE BOARD

The details of the work appear in the tables.

About October 1, 1933, the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the passage of liquor legislation by the state legislature seemed possible, and the members of the Board with its secretary proceeded to inspect the premises of practically all the holders of 3.2% beer and wine licenses issued under Chapter 120 of the Acts of that year.

Applications for any probable kind of retail liquor license were prepared and on and after November 22 given to applicants and sent to the police for investigation. As these applications were returned, they were informally passed upon by the Board and temporary licenses prepared for those approved, so that at four-thirty P.M. December 5, the day and hour when it became legally possible to grant licenses, the Board was ready to grant and did grant on that day about 200 licenses and within the next three days several hundred more.

As permitted by law, the fees fixed by the Board were:

Package Store licenses, all alcoholic	$1,400
Package Store licenses, malt and wine	500
Package Store licenses, malt only	300
Innholders, all alcoholic	2,000
Innholders, malt and wine	750
Innholders, malt only	400
Common victualers, all alcoholic	1,200
Common victualers, malt and wine	500
Common victualers, malt only	300
Clubs, all alcoholic	600
Clubs, malt and wine	400
Clubs, malt only	300
Taverns, all alcoholic	1,000
Taverns, malt and wine	500
Taverns, malt only	300
Drug licenses	300

On January 29, 1934, it became legal to grant tavern licenses, and they were first granted on that date.

By Chapter 385 of the Acts of 1934, which took effect June 30, the Legislature fixed the maximum fee for all alcoholic tavern licenses at $750, and the Board fixed that sum as the fee for tavern licenses thereafter issued.

The number of all alcoholic package licenses permitted by law in Boston is 350. The number of applications for this type of license received prior to December 16 was 852. By law only 80% of 350 could be granted if there were more applications and appeals pending than enough to make up the quota. Consequently the Board granted 80% of 350 and on December 16 rejected without prejudice all pending applications. Rejected applicants so disposed appealed to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission and the Commission sustained enough of the appeals to make up the quota.

As permitted by law, some licensees of all kinds were granted temporary licenses to May 1, and at that time extended for the balance of the year if conditions appeared to warrant.

The days and the maximum hours of sale are fixed by law for all classes of licenses and the Board made no change in these hours for Package Stores and Taverns, but the maximum hours fixed by law for Innholders, Common Victualers and Clubs, 8 A.M. to 2 A.M., seemed to the Board too liberal.

The Board therefore restricted the sale by these licensees to 1 A.M. on week days and not until after 1 P.M. on Sunday.

The law now forbids the sale between 2 A.M. and 1 P.M. on Sunday.

More restrictive hours have also been established in special cases and sometimes no sale at all on Sunday is permitted.

The Board adopted various regulations from time to time during the year. It came to the attention of the Board that some licensed Restaurants and Taverns were selling hard liquor by the bottle not necessarily consumed in whole or in part on the premises. This seemed to be bad practice and the Board adopted regulations forbidding, with the exception of malt and wine, the sale of alcoholic beverages in bottles or original containers in Restaurants or Taverns and forbidding the holders of Restaurant or Tavern licenses from purchasing, with the exception of malt and wine, alcoholic beverages in bottles or original containers holding less than one-fifth of a gallon.

A druggist may sell alcohol without a license, but it seemed to the Board that the sale of alcohol should be subject to the same restrictions as the sale of alcoholic beverages under a drug liquor license. The Board therefore requested licensed druggists to record all sales of alcohol in the same book and in the same manner that the sales of alcoholic beverages are required by law to be recorded and this practice was later made a condition of a drug license.

Soon after the first of the year, small packages of hard liquor alcoholic beverages known as "nips" appeared for sale by licensees. Testimony presented caused the Board to believe that the sale of these "nips" was not for the public good and it adopted a regulation forbidding their sale by package and drug licensees.

With the coming of repeal, some restaurants advertised as clubs and there were other misnomers. The Board did not consider this proper and adopted a regulation to the effect that no licensee advertise to be anything else but what it or he legally was. This has since become law.

Various circulars of information, instruction and warning were also issued from time to time. In August questionnaires were sent to restaurant, hotel and tavern licensees asking the extent and many details of their business and to the Police asking for a report on the character and conduct of the business carried on by the licensee.

When liquor legislation was first passed, there was no provision for Taverns. That was to be the subject of special vote and consequently with the exception of Innholders and Clubs, restaurants were the only possible places for the public consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The law defining a restaurant in connection with the sale of alcoholic beverages is capable of different interpretations, but it is the opinion of the Board that a restaurant in order to be entitled to an alcoholic and especially a hard liquor alcoholic beverage license ought to be well equipped and have a substantial food business independent of aleoholic beverages. Malt and malt and wine restaurant licenses have been granted with less requirements as to food business than in the case of hard liquor.

The granting of these licenses to established and going restaurants presented no great difficulty, but hundreds of new ones were established, each with the avowed purpose of doing a restaurant business.

The result is that in some parts of the city there are more restaurants than the restaurant business warrants, and the dispensing of aleoholic beverages is likely to become their principal business. The question of how much food business in proportion to the aleoholic beverage business of an establishment is necessary in order to consider it a restaurant and entitled to the long hours and privileges of a restaurant is a difficult one and doubtless varies.

It may be, as urged by some, that the legislature intended that a proper equipment and a fair food supply is all that is necessary to constitute a restaurant without reference to whether any one buys the food, but if this is so, it simply means a practical tavern with the longer hours and other privileges denied to regular taverns. It was formerly the theory in this Commonwealth that restaurants and the dining rooms of hotels and clubs were intended to be resorted to for food, and, if so licensed, aleoholic beverages with the food, but that if a person simply wanted a drink a bar room or saloon was the place to go.

But conditions and the wishes of many people have changed. There is more eating with drinking and probably more drinking with eating. Nearly all taverns sell some food and this is encouraged by the Board.

There is a great call for entertainment of some kind while eating or drinking or both. In almost every place where intoxicating beverages are sold there is a radio, and the great majority of restaurants and hotels have or would like to have more elaborate entertainment, and the number of places where opportunity for dancing is provided is large.

Another change in conditions is the custom of beginning entertainments, recreations and other functions at a later hour, and the desire of many to continue their recreation to a much later hour than a few years ago.

Before prohibition no sale of aleoholic beverages was permitted after 11 P.M. in hotels, restaurants, and saloons, except that hotels by paying an extra $500 license fee might extend their sale hours until midnight.

The new aleoholic beverage law permits the issuance of a Club liquor license to a club not having any great club activities, and the number at present is considerably more than before prohibition. Evidence of undesirable and unlawful conditions existing in a few clubs has been received and those clubs have been disciplined and there are rumors concerning others.

Not many complaints have been received against licensed drug stores, and most of these complaints are with reference to the sale of alcohol not necessarily sold for but used by the buyer for beverages purposes. No license is now required for the sale of alcohol by a druggist who holds a certificate of fitness from the Board of Pharmacy.

It may be noted that the number of Innholders licenses granted is very much less than before prohibition. Before prohibition there were a substantial number of hotels whose principal business was the selling of aleoholic beverages on Sunday and the conduct of these hotels was considered to be among the worst features of the distribution of aleoholic beverages.

In the granting of package licenses, the Board endeavors to distribute them so that the inhabitants of all parts of the city may have these stores reasonably convenient to their places of residence, with additional granting in business centers.

In the granting of restaurant and tavern licenses, the Board prefers to grant them in business centers and on business streets and does not intend to grant them where they are likely to be reasonably objectionable to the neighbors or to churches, schools, or playgrounds.

Reports indicate that there are still some bootleggers and speakeasies, but, in the opinion of the Board, the great majority of those desiring alcoholic beverages prefer to purchase them legally, even though illegal merchandise may be offered at a lower price.

Complaints are received by the Board from the Police and from individuals and organizations against all types of licensees and from the inspectors of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission against liquor licensees, and the Board is ready to receive information at any time and from any source of the illegal or improper conduct of any licensee or as to the desirability of granting or refusing any license.

The granting of and the various matters connected with liquor licenses, together with the usual work of the Board concerning other licenses, have required many hearings, but the number of complaints of wrong doing by liquor licensees have been few in proportion to the number of licenses.

The Police are the agents of the Board to investigate and report on applications for licenses and to report on the conduct of licensees and conditions on licensed premises. The inspectors of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission have also given valuable co-operation.

The establishing of a wise and satisfactory system for the dispensing of alcoholic beverages is a very important undertaking, is still in the experimental stage and some desirable changes, both in the law and in its administration, will doubtless be indicated as time goes on.

All alcoholic beverage licenses are subject to approval by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, but practically all licenses thus far granted by the Board have been approved by the Commission.

All decisions by Licensing Boards concerning alcoholic beverage applications, licenses or licensees may be appealed to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

In addition to the large number of package license appeals in December, which appeals were technical and necessary to the granting of the entire quota of those licenses, there were a few other package license and club appeals.

There were 111 appeals in connection with restaurant or tavern licenses; 34 of these appeals were disposed of by withdrawal or in some other way not involving an actual hearing.

Of the 77 restaurant and tavern appeals heard by the Commission, 9 were disciplinary and the Board was sustained in 5 cases and overruled in 4. The larger part of the remaining 68 were appeals from the refusal of the Board to grant hard liquor restaurant or tavern licenses, and the Board was sustained in 25 and overruled in 43 of these 68 cases.

In the granting of licenses, the Board co-operates with the Building Department, the Health Department, the Park Department and the School Department of the City and its relations with these departments, the Police Department and the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission are harmonious.

It desires to express its appreciation of the faithful service of its secretary and employees, with regret that the service has required much overtime work on the part of some.

Respectfully submitted,

D. T. MONTAGUE,
MARY E. DRISCOLL,

Licensing Board for the City of Boston.

LEGISLATION

No Federal legislation bearing on the work of the Board was enacted during the fiscal year.

Considerable State legislation was enacted, largely of a perfecting or clarifying nature but new legislation made several definite changes affecting the work of the Board and the rights and obligations of licensees.

By Chapter 253, Acts of 1935, the previous requirement that alcoholic beverages could only be served to patrons when seated was done away with and the matter of stools at bar or counter made optional with the licensee but with the provision that on Sundays all patrons and women patrons at all times must be seated when served alcoholic beverages. Upon the passage of this act, many licensees removed the stools from bars or counters, but the demands of customers soon brought them back again and they are now to be found in most restaurants and taverns.

By Chapter 440, Acts of 1935, Section 7, local licensing authorities are given discretion on applications for alcoholic beverage restaurant licenses to grant such licenses for either all days of the week or for six days only, with the provision that the license fee for a seven-day license should not be more than 25% greater than for a six-day license. After the passage of this act, the Board established new license fees for six-day restaurants closing at midnight and those closing at one A.M. Before the passage of this act, the Board granted some restaurant licenses for six days only, in some cases because of the objection of the representatives of churches and others to a seven-day license and in others because there was apparently very little food business on Sunday.

Section 13 of said Chapter 440 established a new requirement in regard to the advertising of applications and all applications for the sale of alcoholic beverages whether original or renewal must now be advertised once. The Board made a rule that this advertising must be done in some daily newspaper and in all the editions of the day.

By Section 23, licensing authorities are empowered to order a refund of a license fee paid in the event of an error in the kind of license issued or if the applicant has withdrawn his application before the license is issued or after a license has been issued if the licensing authorities are satisfied that no right power or privilege has been exercised under the license. This section also allows a transfer of a license by the holder from one location to another upon the same conditions as regards advertising and approval as if it were an original application.

It also permits a license held by an individual, partnership or corporation to be transferred to a qualified corporation if the parties interested in the business retain substantially the same interest in the business after the transfer. Since this act was passed a substantial number of individuals and partnerships have incorporated and have transferred the license held by them to the corporation.

It appears to be the intent of this permissive amendment as also the statement concerning transfers contained in the first sentence of Section 23 of Chapter 138 of the General Laws as amended that the transfer of an alcoholic beverage license from one licensee to another is forbidden but apparently there is nothing to prevent the stockholders of a corporation licensee from selling all their stock to an entirely new stockholder or stockholders and thus bring about a practical transfer of the license to new parties in interest.

By Section 26 of said Chapter, the hours for the sale of alcoholic beverages without a prescription by a licensed druggist are made to conform to the hours of a package store, 8 A.M. to 11 P.M.

Section 32 of said Chapter makes possession on licensed premises of any alcoholic beverage or alcohol not authorized to be sold or used under the terms of the license prima facie evidence of intent to sell unlawfully.

Section 33 adds alcohol to alcoholic beverages which cannot be sold or served by any person not a citizen.

Section 34 provides a penalty for a licensee who employs a person under 21 years of age in the direct handling or selling or who sells to any person under 21 years of age any alcoholic beverage or alcohol.

These three sections are substantially the same as heretofore except for the addition of alcohol.

Section 35 is a substantial re-enactment of Chapter 146 of the current year which was entirely new and provides a penalty for a minor who falsely states his age in order to procure a sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages or alcohol and a similar penalty for whoever knowingly falsely states the age of a minor in order to procure a sale or delivery to a minor or whoever induces a minor to falsely state his age for this purpose.

By Section 76 of Chapter 138 of the General Laws as amended, licensing authorities were given the right to grant licenses for the sale of denatured alcohol but by Section 43 of said Chapter 440, said Section 76 was stricken out and the new section inserted in place of the former makes no mention of denatured alcohol. Consequently there is apparently now no provision for licensing the sale of denatured alcohol.

Chapter 468 of the Acts of 1935, Section 1 is substantially a re-statement and re-enactment of Section 12 of Chapter 138 of the General Laws as amended by earlier acts of the current year with the new feature that except on Saturday night one o'clock A.M. is now the legal limit for the sale of alcoholic beverages by Hotels, Restaurants, and Clubs instead of two o'clock A.M. as theretofore.

This change of legal hour makes no practical difference in Boston because the Licensing Board with the advent of repeal established one o'clock A.M. as the limit for such sales.

There are several matters that might well be made more clear by additional legislation. A tavern keeper is allowed to sell food the same as a restaurant and if he does so should have a common victualer license. This license practically requires him to sell food to all customers but under the alcoholic beverage law no woman may be a patron of a tavern. This conflict of laws has thus far caused no trouble in Boston, but the inconsistency should be removed.

If it was the intention of the legislature to definitely forbid the transfer to a new owner of an alcoholic beverage license during its term, more definite legislation is required where the license is held by a corporation.

There is reason for and there is a difference of opinion as to the rights intended to be conferred on public officers, receivers, trustees, assignees for the benefit of creditors, mortgagees, and pledgees by Section 2 of Chapter 138 of the General Laws as amended. Did the Legislature intend that these parties or any of them should be permitted to carry on the business of a restaurant or tavern, or whatever the business may be, under the license held by the former owner of the business, or did the Legislature intend to authorize the sale in bulk of the alcoholic beverages belonging to the debtor the same as other personal property of the debtor would naturally be sold?

Before prohibition there was a statute fixing the minimum distance from a public school at which an alcoholic beverage license might be granted, but contrary to the usual impression there was no restriction in regard to churches or playgrounds.

In the opinion of the Board not all types of licensed places are equally objectionable, but the distance and situation of any proposed licensed premises with reference to schools, churches, and playgrounds should be taken into consideration in the granting of licenses. Acting on this principle the Board has rejected several applications because of the nearness of the proposed location to schools, churches, or playgrounds, and in its opinion there might well be reasonable legislation concerning the matter.

WORK OF THE BOARD

The details of the work appear in the tables.

LICENSE FEES

As the time for fixing alcoholic beverage license fees for 1935 approached, representatives of all classes of licensees appeared before the Board and requested reductions.

Several hearings were held and after consultation with his Honor the Mayor, a reduction of the fees for package goods stores and drug stores was granted.

One new license was established, a six-day restaurant license.

The alcoholic beverage license fees fixed by the Board for 1935 were as follows:

Package Store licenses, all alcoholic	$1,200
Package Store licenses, malt and wine	600
Package Store licenses, malt only	300
Innholders, all alcoholic	2,000
Innholders, malt and wine	750
Innholders, malt only	400
Common victualers:
7 days, all alcoholic	1,200
7 days, malt and wine	500
7 days, malt only	400
6 days, close midnight, all alcoholic	1,000
6 days, close midnight, malt and wine	400
6 days, close midnight, malt only	300
Clubs, all alcoholic	600
Clubs, malt and wine	400
Clubs, malt only	300
Taverns, all alcoholic	750
Taverns, malt and wine	300
Taverns, malt only	200
Drug licenses	200

There was no change in miscellaneous license fees.

The Board has drafted and distributed to licensees during the year several circulars calling attention to various matters required by law, by the conditions of a license, the regulations of the Board, and the rules of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, but has made few new regulations.

From information received, the Board became of the opinion that the sale of malt beverages by the pitcher was not wise and by a regulation adopted in April forbade further sale in that manner. Most licensees complied but a few sought to evade by selling six 5c drinks or three 10c drinks for a quarter. This practice was probably contrary to law and was as a practical matter against the preceding rule of the Board and the Board on October 10th notified all licensees that the sale of more than one drink at one time to one customer was contrary to the wishes of the Board.

Various forms of gambling appear to be regarded with more favor than at some periods, but the Board is still, as for many years, of the opinion that devices affording the opportunity or the temptation to gamble whether or not gambling devices per se have no proper place on licensed premises. The presence of these devices on licensed premises was forbidden by the Board years ago but every little while a new crop appears said by the promoters to be different and not within the prohibition and some licensees are doubtless deceived and some probably take a chance. Last spring a new and attractive type of machine appeared which was so skillfully promoted that many were in use before authorities were aware. The Board considered the matter of sufficient importance to get out and distribute through the Police to licensees a new circular calling attention to the various forms of gambling forbidden by the law and saying that "The Board is of the opinion that slot machines or any other devices which furnish anything beside merchandise of a quantity and quality commensurate with the price deposited, or a machine which gives prizes, or a machine which may be used for gambling, are gambling devices within the meaning of the law, and the use on licensed premises of any such machines or devices is forbidden by the Board. Do not rely on the statements of agents of these machines or devices. Consult your attorney or the Licensing Board."

There continues to be a great call for entertainment in connection with the consumption of food and beverages. Radio is permitted on all licensed premises and is practically the only entertainment allowed in a tavern. Instrumental and vocal music are wanted in the majority of restaurants and dancing in many, and some or all of these are allowed on premises that appear to be suitable and when not likely to cause disorder or become a nuisance.

No dancing is allowed on Sunday or after midnight Sunday night except that on two or three special charitable occasions, dancing has been allowed after 12-1 A.M. Monday morning.

A new type of entertainment for all licensed premises appeared last summer called Ticker News Service. One company proposed to give among other things racing news before and during the progress of each race so that betting could be done. This company was informed that this kind of news would not be allowed by the Board and it abandoned the field. The other company gave general news with racing results after a race closed. This service was much like that given by radio and was permitted by the Board, but with all racing news eliminated. Many applications for this form of entertainment were received but it did not prove to be popular.

The police are by law the agents of the Board to investigate and report on applications for all kinds of licenses, and to report on the conduct of licensees and conditions on licensed premises. The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission also gives valuable information and cooperation.

Complaints are received by the Board from the Police and from individuals and organizations against all types of licensees and from the inspectors of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission against liquor licensees, and the Board is ready to receive information at any time from any source of the illegal or improper conduct of any licensee or as to the desirability of granting or refusing any license.

The sale of alcoholic beverages is legal and is now a part of our social and economic life, but the number of licenses to be granted, within the limits prescribed by law, the type of license most suitable, the location and suitability of the premises and the number needed or desirable in a particular district, are matters of judgment by the Board, and on appeal, by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission. Every citizen and every organization interested has a right to be heard and the Board welcomes information that may assist it to act wisely.

Drug store licenses are not subject to approval by and there is no right of appeal to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission. All other alcoholic beverage licenses are subject to approval by the Commission, but practically all licenses thus far granted by the Board have been approved by the Commission. All decisions by Licensing Boards concerning the granting or refusing of alcoholic beverage licenses, except as to whether restaurant licenses shall be granted for all days in the week or for six days only, and all decisions in matters of discipline may be appealed to the Commission.

In deciding appeals on their merits, the terms used by the Commission are "appeal sustained" and "appeal denied."

A decision "appeal sustained" means that the Board is overruled and if the appeal was from the refusal of the Board to grant a license, the Commission orders the Board to grant the license.

A decision "appeal denied" means that the action of the Board is upheld by the Commission and the party that appealed gains nothing by his appeal.

During the year there were 152 appeals from the action of the Board to the Commission; 45 of these appeals were disposed of by withdrawal or in some other way not involving an actual hearing by the Commission.

Of the 107 appeals heard, the Commission sustained 45 and denied 62.

Seven appeals were disciplinary and of these 1 was sustained and 6 denied. Seventy-nine appeals were from the refusal of the Board to grant restaurant or tavern licenses and of these 37 were sustained and 42 denied.

Of 12 appeals from the refusal of the Board to grant package store licenses, 5 were sustained and 7 denied.

Three club applications were rejected by the Board and on appeal 2 were sustained and 1 denied.

One seasonal application refused by the Board was denied by the Commission on appeal.

Two appeals from changes by the Board of the type of license held by a licensee were denied by the Commission.

In the matter of 2 package licenses and 1 restaurant license granted by the Board, citizens appealed to the Commission to refuse approval. These three appeals were denied and the granting of the licenses approved.

The number of complaints with reference to miscellaneous licenses, which term includes all licenses except those connected with the sale of alcoholic beverages, runs along about the same year after year, and is substantial but not large in proportion to the number of licenses. Complaints against alcoholic beverage licensees have also been few in comparison with the number.

Many hearings have been held in connection with alcoholic beverage licenses, but a large proportion of these hearings have been with reference to the granting of a license or the type of license to be granted, transfers to new locations, changes from one type of license to another, changes of hours, the granting and changing of entertainment permits, and other matters of a more minor nature.

In the granting of licenses, the Board cooperates with the Building Department, the Health Department, the Park Department and the School Department of the City and its relations with these departments, the Police Department and the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission are harmonious.

It desires to express its appreciation of the faithful service of its secretary and employees, with regret that the service has required much overtime work on the part of some.

Respectfully submitted,

D. T. MONTAGUE,

EDWIN D. GALLAGHER,

MARY E. DRISCOLL,

Licensing Board for the City of Boston.
